MARKS OF VIOLENCE IN EVIDENCE. PARINTS ACCUSED OF CRUVILLY BEATING THEIR

LITTLE BOY-SCENES IN COURT. Mrs. Josephine Perkins, of No. 431 East Seventyfirst-st., made a complaint in the Yorkville Police Court vesterday, against her neighbors, Frederick Naverny and his wife. The complaint was corroborated by another tenant named Mrs. McCarthy, and set forth that Naverny was in the habit of unmercifully and brutally beating his eight-year-old son, Freddy. The particular act recited against the father was that of beating the child on January 3 with a strap, leaving marks of violence on his n ek and arms, and blacking one of his eyes. The complainants also alleged that the boy's stepmother had recently, in their presence, pushed the little fellow ants also alleged that the boy's stepmother had recently, in their presence, pushed the little fellow violently against the stair raising and walls in the hall. It was no unusual thing for the father to get up at might and whip the loy.

The victim and his parents were in court, and Justice Wandell ordered the step-mother to strip the boy to his waist. She did so with trenshing hands, and during the process the full of a pin could almost have been heard in the court-room, so profound was the stiness. The charges of the commaniants were not exagerated. On the back of the boy's neck was a patch as large as a man's hand, consisting of red streaks which must have beed signify. The left forcarm was all blue from the chow to the wrist. There were, however, no marks of violence on the child on the day mentioned with a strap of leather, but and no idea that he had whinped him so severely. He pleaded his anxiety to make the child good, and attempted to show that the rittle fellow was ungovernable and unruly. He pointed out the cleanliness and general good condition of the boy as proof that he did not habitually ill-treat the child. He promised to be more careful in future in his correction of the child.

Justice Wandell refused to take his promise, and decided to hold man in $500 bail for trial. The man's emotion where about to part with his child, who was to be sent to the care of the Society for the Protection of Children, had its effect upon Justice Wandell, and he decided to allow the inther to take his child home with him until this morning, when the Court will consult with the agent of the society as to the best course to pursue. Naverny is a carriagemaker, and bears a fair reputation for sobriety and industry.

A JURY UNABLE TO AGREE. INEFFECTIVE END OF A TRIAL FOR ARSON IN BROOKLYN.

Bernard Gavigan was tried Saturday in the Kings County Court of Sessions on a charge of arson. He formerly kept a liquor shop in the basement of the tenement house, No. 170 Hamilton-ave., Brooklyn, and lived with his wife in a room in the rear of upon breaking into the place found a fire behind the bar and also one in the back room. Gavigan and his wife were absent. There were twenty persons in the house at the time, but all were taken out without injury. It was shown that Gavigan had an insurance policy on his stock for $1,500, which was in excess of its value. His license had expired and the Commissioners had refused to renew it, and his lease was about to expire. One of the witnesses tostified that Mrs. Gavigan had said to her that impless her husband stopped beating her she would reveal what she knew about other fires. Mrs. Gavigan testified that she never made such a statement. Gavigan attempted to prove an alibi and showed by one witness that at the time of the fire he was at the Howard House in this city. One of the witnesses testified to having heard Gavigan threaten to burn the house. upon breaking into the place found a fire behind

The jurors remained in consultation throughout Saturday night, Judge Moore and his associate justices going home about 10 o'clock. Yesterday morning when the Judges summoned them to the courtroom the jurors announced that they had been unable to agree and were discharged. It was understood that eleven favored conviction of arson in the second degree, but they were unable to persuade the twelfth man to take their view of the case.

THE BILL FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The Special Committee on Legislation of the World's Fair Committee has drafted a bill on the subject of the proposed Exposition in 1883, and it will be brought before Congress without delay. The bill states that the Exposition is in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the treaty of peace, and of the recognition of American independence, and it provides for the appointment of two Commissioners from each State, one from each Territory, and one from the District of Columbia, and names sixty Commissioners from the City of New-York. It provides that the Exposition shall be held under the direction of this Commission as one body; and that the Board of Finance shall be elected by the subscribers to the stock, and that those elected thereby become, if not already so, a part of the Commission—thus avoiding any trouble that might arise from a dual organization. The capital stock is placed at $12,000,000, in shares of $10 each. Foreign nations are to be invited by the General Government to participate in its exhibition. No appropriation is asked for. ration of the 100th anniversary of the treaty of

PERJURY AT A LOW PRICE.

A young and well-dressed woman, who was one the contestants in a recent l'edestrian tournadivorce, and offered for a consideration of $25 for each of four women, of whom she was one, to testify in the case in favor of the husband. The woman intimated that she and the other three witnesses were to receive $20 each to testify on the other side. The lawyer told the woman to call later in the afternoon, and upon the second visit had his clerk stationed behind a door to overhear and take down in writing the woman's propositions. This was done. The woman was induced to call again in the evening, when she was met by the lawyer's client and informed that she would be sent to jail. At the dictation of the lawyer she embodied the propositions in a letter addressed to a man-confederate which was taken by the lawyer as evidence. Testimony in the case will be taken in the present week.

ENDING HIS CELEBRATION IN JAIL. John N. Barklen, a sailor just home from a long ernise, celebrated the event on Saturday night by getting very drunk. He went into the sailors' boarding-house at No. 4 Greenwich-st, and asked for more liquor, which the barkeeper refused him, whereupon he pulled out his shearl-kuife and stabbed Emil Emerson, who stood by, in the temple and in the side. Then he sprang at Frederick Ringquist, another sailor who was standing at the bar reading a paper, and plunged the blade in the fleshy part of his thigh. Barklen was now over-howered and given into the custody of an officer. Emerson was removed to the Chambers Street Hospital. Ringquist's wound is not severe. Barklen was committed to prison yesterday by Justice Buxby at the Tombs Police Court to await the result of Emerson's injuries. for more liquor, which the barkeeper refused him.

ESCAPE OF A SUCCESSFUL FORGER. A smart-looking young man with dark brown bair, who was dressed in workman's clothes, called at the coal office of Jacob Asiel, No. 209 East Eighty-sixthst., last Wednesday, and ordered two tons of coal to be sent to No. 166 East Eighty-second-st. on the following day. He gave his name as James W. Bank, and he offered in payment for the coal a check for $21.50, purporting to be drawn to his order by D. H. McAlpin & Co. on the National Park sixth-st., was assaulted by his sons-in-law, Bernard and sevening, causing a damage of $500 by fire.

Bank. Mr. Asiel accepted the check and paid him $1150 in change. The next day it was discovered that the check had been forged and that no one named Smith lived at the address the man had given. Captain Robbins, of the Twe-ty-third Precenct, yesterday made a statement of the case to Superintendent Walling, admitting that the forger had not been captured.

THROWING STONES THROUGH WINDOWS. William Powers, age twenty-five, of No. 15 Henry-st., Brooklyn, was arrested on January 17 for throwing stones through the windows of John O'Neil's store, No. 35 Henry-st., breaking several panes of glass. One of the stones struck O'Neil on panes of glass. One of the stones struck O'Neil on the forehead, cutting a severe gash. Powers also assaulted Mis. O'Neil with his fist. When he was taken to the Police Court on the following day, neither Mr. nor Mrs. O'Neil appeared as c'ambain and against him, and he was discharged o'Neil, who has been attended by Dr. Atkinson, is grown worse since, and was reported on Saturday of Captain Crafts to be in a critical condition, eryspelas having set in. MEMORIES OF THE REVOLUTION.

CELEBRATING THE HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY OF

THE DESTRUCTION OF A CHURCH. The First Presbyterian Church of Elizabeth, N. J., celebrated yesterday the 100th anniversary of the burning of its first church edifice. Both the morning and evening services comprised the delivery of historical addresses, accompanied in the evening by patriotic and religious singing by a large choir. The church was handsomely decorated, the sides of the galleries and the resding-desk being covered with flags and bunting and the front of the platform fill d with plants and flowers. In the morning the pulpit was occupied by the Rev. Dr. Cameron, of Princeton College. His discourse consisted largely of an account of the early growth of collegiate institutions, with particular reference to the establishment of Princeton College, and contained also a number of facts relating to the introduction of Presbyterianism in East New-Jersey. The idea of the publ school system, he considered, arose among the Paritans from their residence in Holland. Within twenty years Robert A. Johnston (of the firm of J. after landing in this country they established a Congre gational college at Cambridge, and later an Episcopal one was founded in Virginia. The College of New-Jersey, now called Princeton College, was, he said, ment in Newark, last Thursday entered the office | Yale and William and Mary were organized in the in of a Newark lawyer who is counsel for the husband | terests of other denominations. The speaker considered in a suit brought by Mrs. Fielding, a wife, for it a blessing that this country had been preserved, not the times before the Revolutionary War. In the latter part of the discourse the speaker dwelt upon the history of the Rev. James Caldwell, pastor of the church from 1761 to 1741, who acquired among the British the tatle of the "Fighting Chaplain." The battle of Elizabeth was referred to, and the cruel murder of Mrs. Caldwell, the wife of the pastor, and of the pastor himself was commented on. Incidents were related to prove the consistency and purity of the lives of the founders of Presbyternaisem in Elizabeth. The speaker closed with an earnest exhortation to his hearers to follow the examples of their forefathers in fath and courage.

The audiences that listened to the discourses bot The audiences that instead to the discourses of morning and evening were large. In the evening the doors were not opened until half an liour before the beginning of service, and a crowd of nearly a thousand persons gathered outside, and within ten minutes from the opening of the doors every available space for sitting or standing was occupied.

· A CUBAN ON THE CUBAN STRUGGLE.

José Marti, a resident of Havana, who recently returned from Spain, where he was confined several months on account of the sympathy he had nown for the cause of the insurgents in Cuba, lectured on the Revolution in Cuba on Saturday at Steek Hall, in Fourteenth-t. The movement was progressing rapidly, he said, in spite of the many declarations of the enemy to the effect that the revolution had no existence—in fact, the people had acquired during that period a spirit that could not easily be crased. The present war did not arise from a desire to seek revenge; but was undertaken because of the principles involved. It was true that some of the Cubans themselves were opposed to the revolution, but it was because they wished to retain their slaves. The remainder of the inhabitants were in sympathy with the cause and would do their utmost to promote its success when opportunity off-red. The promises being made now by Spain could not be accepted with any faith, and the result would be that the insurgents would straggle on until a war of races should cusine. Such a result was to be deplored but it was inevitable if the friends of civilization would not come to their aid. The revolutionist sought to promote the interests of civilization, and they would usually he interests of civilization, and they would usually he in the end. present war did not arise from a desire

A CELESTIAL QUARKEL ON SUNDAY.

Officer Weinberg, of the Fourteenth Precinct, inst night heard two pistol shots in front of No. 96 Mottst., and found there a crowd of men and boys collected about four Chinamen. Some of the men said that a fifth Chinaman, who had run away, had fired the shots after having been stabbed in the leg. One of the Chinamen present was pointed out as having a large knife. The officer took the four Chinamen to the police station, and officer took the four Chinamen to the police station, and on one of them, who gave his name as Gee Yoo, was found a large dagger. THE AGITATION ABROAD. LONDON, Jan. 25, 1880.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin has issued an appeal through the London press, in behalf of the Man-sion House Relief Committee, stating that the committee is not connected with any other organization, and that it consists of representatives of all creeds and all shades of politics. The appeal states that evidence acshades of polities. The appeal states that evidence accumulates, that there is scarcely a county in Ireland in which terrible privation does not exist in some portion, though it is more severe in the western counties and on the northwest and southwest scaboards. The Lord Mayor fears the public of London does not realize the gravity of the crisis, or that unless prompt assistance be given tens of thousands of people must the of starvation.
He cannot think that if they did, they who gave bundreds of thousands to avert a famine in India would have given less to the Dublin Mausion House Fund than had Sydney or Melbourne.

CIVIL NOTES.

Judge Wheeler has issued notice that there will be a further call of the Equity calendar from No. 92 to 130, inclusive, 10-day, in the United States

In the Brooklyn City Court some time ago John Schlichter recovered $600 damages from L. Wintjen, a sugar-reffner, for injuries sustained while he was at work in the defendant's refinery. Schlichter has was at work in the defendant's refinery. Schlichter has since died, and it is alleged that his death was caused by his injuries. His widow has brought a suit acainst Mr. Wintjen to recover $5,000 damages for the loss of her huseand. A motion was made before Judge Gilbert on Saturday to compel the plaintiff to give security for costs. The decision was reserved. It is claimed by the defendant that the former judgment acts as a bar against the present a non-Margaret S. Woodbridge sued Peleg Nelson to recover damages for the alleged fraudulent conver sion of furniture, and recovered a judgment for $450. After the judgment was entered the defendant was arrested in this city upon an execution against the person and placed in the Ludiow Street Jali. He applied to the Court of Common Plows to be released, but the application was refused. An application was then made to Judge Baraard in Kings County; it was denied, and was then renewed before Judge Pratt, who reterred the matter to Edwin G. Dayls to take testimony. The referee reported in tayor of releasing Nelson, and a motion was made Saturday, before Judge Gilbert, to confirm the report. The decision was reserved. rested in this city upon an execution against the person
